Monday, 24 February 2020 20:30 WIB

HumasUPNVJ - The new paradigm in higher education emphasizes the ability to develop national competitiveness and apply autonomy to an educational institution, in which an atmosphere of openness and accountability has grown as accountability to the public. With this paradigm in place, UPN Veteran Jakarta held Student Assistance Development Training activities for supervisors of student activity units within the UPN Veteran Jakarta environment and presented two speakers, including Benny Herwanto and Budi Utomo Kukuh Widodo which were held for three days, Monday 24 February to Wednesday February 26 2020 at the Mercure Hotel Jakarta.

The activity was opened by the Rector of UPNVJ, Erna Hernawati, "This activity was carried out so that the supervisors can guide students in their respective UKM in organizing. Because after the training for supervisors there will be training for students as well. I hope that in the future the ladies and gentlemen who are present here can provide strategic plans for students to carry out activities that are right on target and carry out activities that are certainly in accordance with the vision and mission of UPNVJ itself and are able to produce graduates who are competitive and have a defense identity. country". he said

Meanwhile, according to the Chairman of the Committee, Asep Kamaluddin, "The impact of globalization is the change in the role of higher education institutions, from traditional educational institutions to creators of science and technology (Science and Technology), from random planners to strategic, from an approach that was originally comparative to an approach that competitive. In connection with the new paradigm in higher education, the development of student assistance needs to be one of the concerns of various parties, especially the Directorate General of Learning and Student Affairs to become a very decisive foundation for determining which direction this nation will be taken to face the accelerated progress of science and technology and life in the era of globalization which requires the ability and competitiveness to be able to demonstrate its existence among other countries and nations in the world". Asep explained

In addition, in his interview with the Public Relations Team, Asep also explained the purpose of this training being held, "With this activity, P3MAWA participants can implement the function of student assistants by knowing the conditions of the student world in Indonesia, can know patterns of student development nationally, and can understand the dynamics of student affairs. student life". he continued

The activity continued with the presentation of material by the resource person regarding the concept of P3MAWA and material regarding Student Management Skills Training.
