Still part of the 1945 Spirit, Spirit and Values Inheritance Training series conducted by the Indonesian Veterans Legion (LVRI) which started on January 15.

On this occasion, Anter Venus, UPNVJ Chancellor, directly monitored the training held at the Cipto Building, UPNVJ Faculty of Medicine, on Wednesday (17/01/24).

Not only monitoring, on this occasion Venus also provided brief briefings to 15 lecturers in training classes.

"Indonesia's diversity can be done from small things, religious tolerance is one of them. "We are at the forefront of forming the young generation, so on that basis we want to ask for the inheritance of the values of struggle by LVRI," said Venus in her briefing.

"The discussions we have had are related to values because values are a guide to how we behave. "The value of honesty is the main thing as humans, the country was built based on values, one of which is Pancasila," he said.

He also said that every Pancasila value certainly has a lot to do with our implementation in life, starting from us worshipping God, sharing with fellow humans, mutual cooperation in matters of health (BPJS) and so on.

"Life is governed by values, apart from Pancasila values, there are other values, such as our agenda this time discussing the inheritance of the value of defending the country, the value of struggle, the value of national insight, the scope of which is certainly not small and narrow but very broad," he added.
