Prof. Parmin also explained the need for risk management in student organizations. Students are encouraged to prioritize physical and mental safety in activities, track sources of risk in activities, provide risk information to activity committees, minimize losses due to risks, and provide a sense of security for stakeholders and protect ormawa functionaries from legal issues. .

He also explained how students must recognize risk management starting from implementing policy procedures, reducing risks during implementation, to reducing the risk of losses from existing activities.

Prof. Parmin also advised UPNVJ students to continue to be rich, give their best and maintain the good name of the university.

"Don't stop working at UPNVJ. Give your best during the learning process and maintain a good name when outside campus," concluded Prof. Parmin.
