

Two FK UPNVJ Students Win 2nd Place in the National Scientific Writing Competition

Tuesday, 24 September 2024 15:17 WIB

HumasUPNVJ – Two students of Universitas Pembangunan Nasional Veteran Jakarta (UPNVJ), Abdul Lathif and Ananda Shaafiyah from the Medical study program won 2nd place in the National Scientific Writing Competition held in the framework of the 12th Airlangga Ideas Competition X National Symposium is a national scientific writing competition organized by UKM Penalaran Universitas Airlangga and in collaboration with ILP2MI (Association of Indonesian Student Reasoning and Research Institutions). This competition carries the theme Embracing the Sustainable Age: Student Innovation in Building an Environmentally Friendly Ecosystem for a Sustainable Future.

Adinda and Lathif during their presentation

This achievement placed them in second place out of 219 participants consisting of 83 teams and coming from 34 state and private universities spread throughout Indonesia which was held at Airlangga University, Surabaya on September 20-21, 2024. Precisely at the Cenderawasih Hall, Campus B and the Joint Lecture Building, Campus C.

Met online, Lathif and Ananda expressed their feelings of joy and pride to the UPNVJ Public Relations Team, "With this activity, we are very happy because this competition is our first competition that goes directly out of town to become a delegate for the UPNVJ Medical Faculty. What we like is the challenge in completing this essay competition and the many new experiences that we have gained. There are also several things that are difficult and challenging in this competition because the competition time is close to the exam schedule plus the long journey to Surabaya which is quite tiring. However, with the help of parents, stakeholders in the Faculty, and also the supervising lecturer, we have been able to step up to this point," he said.

"Although constrained by holiday time and exams at the Faculty of Medicine, we feel that we have made good preparations. Some of the things we have prepared are of course research on the topics we bring, conducting research, writing reports, preparing the things needed for offline competitions in Surabaya, and most importantly preparing mentally to take part in the competition. We hope that fellow students can foster a strong interest and enthusiasm to represent the campus, faculty, or student organizations in various competitions, both academic and non-academic. We have an important role to carry the good name of the campus wherever and whenever. Therefore, hopefully with this good moment it can encourage the enthusiasm of friends, especially in the Faculty of Medicine of UPN "Veteran" Jakarta to become delegates in all activities that can make the name of this beloved campus proud. Finally, a life that is not at stake will never be won," Lathif and Adinda concluded in their written statement.

With this achievement, UPNVJ continues to demonstrate its commitment in supporting academic development and student research. Congratulations to the two students who have brought good name to the university! (*s)

Lathif and Adinda with all participants

Export tanggal : Friday, 27 December 2024 Pukul 04:41:49 WIB.

Exported dari [<https://upnvj.ac.id/en/berita/2024/09/two-fk-upnvj-students-won-2nd-champions-national-scientific-writing-competition.html>]
